

Learn By Doing — Grant Writing

Make Your Next Grant Proposal a Success

A Grant Writing Workshop Series is being offered to all nonprofit organizations in Polk, Yamhill, Marion, and Tillamook Counties in the summer of 2017. The workshop series is designed to help beginning and intermediate grant writers working in nonprofit organizations increase their skills at developing project proposals and successfully planning, writing and attaining grant funding from local and regional funding sources.

Nonprofit organizations are encouraged to bring more than one board member, staff, or volunteer from each organization. The cost for the series (including lunches) is $95 per person. Early registration is encouraged; the series will be limited to 40 participants. Some scholarships are available please contact Jessie Katon, 541-684-9077, ext. 5.

Series Schedule: The four part series will be held on Thursdays from 10:00 am—3:00 pm (lunch included) at the Henry Hill Educational Support Center; Room: Hawk Hall, 750 South 5th Street, Independence, OR 97351.

About Your Learn By Doing Trainer

Meredith Howell, PhD, is a Regional Program Developer for RDI. In 2010 she developed the Learn By Doing—Grant Writing Series curriculum to help rural grant writers gain practical knowledge and hands-on experience. Meredith has significant experience helping organizations build strategic and sustainable funding plans. Meredith's background in scientific research, teaching, and university curriculum development allows her to effectively communicate complicated and abstract concepts to adult learners.
